A Few Dots on Man.

A man's life is full of crosses and temptations.

He comes into this world without his consent, and goes out against his will, and the trip between the two is exceedingly rocky. The rule of contraries is one of the important features of the trip.

When he is little the big girls kiss him, but when he is grown up the little girls kiss him.

If he is poor, he is a bad manager; if he is rich, he is dishonest.

If he is prosperous, every one wants to do him a favor.

If he is in politics, its for pie; if he's out of politics, you can't place him; and he's no goor for his country.

If he doesn't give to charity, he is a stringy cuss; if he does, it is for show.

If he is actively religious, he is a hypocrite; if he takes no interest in religion, he is a hardened sinner.

If he shows affection, he is a soft specimen; if he seems to care for no one, he is cold blooded.

If he dies young, there was a great future ahead of him; if he lives to an old age, he has missed his calling.

The road is rocky, but man loves to travel it.—Chicago Trade Journal.
